

Dear colleagues and sponsors,

We would like to extend our heartfelt thanks to all of you who presented your significant scientific work in the fields of biochemistry and related sciences. Your dedication to your work and passion for science were truly evident throughout the conference.

It was both a pleasure and an honor to host you all in the heart of Serbia – Šumadija. We hope that the participants of the conference left with positive impressions, new insights, and ideas for future scientific work and collaboration, as well as new acquaintances, friendships, and fond memories of Kragujevac and us as your hosts.

Thank you for the good fellowship, the joyful moments, and the invaluable exchange of experiences. It was an absolute pleasure to spend these two days with you.

During the two-day conference, we were honored to host over ninety participants, including two plenary lectures, eight invited talks, and seventy poster presentations. Among these, ten international participants presented their research, enriching the event with an international perspective.

Also, this year's conference was dedicated to the first president of SBS, and above all a great biochemist and scientist, recently deceased Professor Mihajlo Spasić.

A special thanks go to our sponsors, the Ministry of Science, Technological Development and Innovation, Analysis, Labena, Superlab, Alfamed, and Kefo, as well as Faculty of Science in Kragujevac for their generous support in making this conference a success.

We look forward to seeing you again at future events and continuing our collaboration in advancing scientific knowledge.

Vladimir Mihailović
